In this Pre-Mentorship preview series, leading up to the RAMSA Mentorship Program, we will have a variety of build-up sessions covering different student points of interest to provide students a glimpse into the everyday tasks involved in studying or working in architecture:

1. We will kick off this series with a RAMSA NOMA Fellow - Teddy Levy - who will introduce students to the world of architecture, particularly through an academic lens, with an interactive design exercise and a discussion followed.

2. In this introductory Portfolio Workshop, RAMSA staff will provide students with insights into crafting a comprehensive and convincing portfolio.

3. Michael McGrattan will give students a virtual tour and discussion of an Architect's tasks during an on-site CA construction visit.

4. RAMSA employees will discuss RAMSA's approach to design, and how the pandemic has impacted how we work.

5. We will end this series with a design challenge for the students to explore their design skills and the knowledge they have gained through this experience.
